

Officials Should Take the Lead

The following happened one day when the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un visited the Kumsanpho Fish Pickling Factory.

At its sci-tech learning space he expressed satisfaction as it was built wonderfully.

He said: The factory should operate it well to ensure that its officials and employees obtain profound sci-tech knowledge and make effective use of it in production. The officials, in particular, should know much about the knowledge and other common sense for the processing of seafood.

The officials had in their mind his noble intention that they should naturally take the lead in learning modern sci-tech knowledge.

They were firmly determined to become the standard-bearers in mastering modern sci-tech knowledge so as to fulfill their role in revitalizing the production of the factory and its development.
