At Unsan Paper Mill

In December 2025, respected Comrade Kim Jong Un visited the Unsan Paper Mill nearing its inauguration.

Looking round the mill, he stressed the issue of developing the Korean-style papermaking industry.

In the entrance hall, he stressed the need to develop our own paper-making method and technology relying on the raw materials in the country.

Looking round a multipurpose paper machine designed and manufactured by the Paper Engineering Institute under the State Academy of Sciences, he highly appreciated it as it had a high degree of dependence on domestic materials. And he repeatedly underscored the need to steadily update it in the future and develop the paper-making method in our own way.

The accompanying officials recalled the efforts Comrade Kim Jong Un had made for the establishment of the Korean-style paper-making industry.

He had said there would be no difficulty in solving the problem of raw materials if fallen leaves abundant in the country are used in producing paper and sent technical documents to them. When he was told that they succeeded in making paper with fallen leaves, he had taken a measure for setting up a similar production line in regional paper mills.

That day, feasting his eyes on the facilities of the mill, Comrade Kim Jong Un repeatedly said with satisfaction: It is quite wonderful. It is a good thing that the province has built a paper mill capable of meeting the demand of its residents. The facilities made by the province itself are very good.

The officials were deeply moved, looking up to him who was very pleased over the manufacture of the Korean-style paper-making facilities.

True to his ennobling intention to provide his beloved people with things made with indigenous efforts and domestically-available raw and other materials, they were firmly determined once again to devote themselves to bringing earlier the beautiful future.
