Looking at Integrated Production System

One February day in 2017, respected Comrade Kim Jong Un visited the Samchon Catfish Farm.

While looking at an integrated production system in the general control room, he asked an official from the State Academy of Sciences about the differences between the system and that in the Pyongyang Catfish Farm.

After he was briefed on them, he praised that the State Academy of Sciences was doing many good things for the prosperity of the country.

The official felt awkward.

Two years back, Comrade Kim Jong Un visited the Pyongyang Catfish Farm and was told that the information devices introduced into its integrated production system were not made at home. Feeling regrettable about it, he stressed the need to use domestic things when establishing an integrated production system in the future.

So, the officials and scientists have studied hard to establish an indigenous integrated production system. Their strenuous efforts were crowned with the present success.

In fact, Comrade Kim Jong Un has given meticulous guidance to ensure that they conducted scientific research with their efforts and technology and in their own way.

And today he highly appreciated the scientists for their success.

That day, the officials and scientists made up their mind again to give fuller play to the revolutionary spirit of self-reliance, true to his intention.